SAD STORY OF LIFE OF "JAMES CONNORS"

The following dispatch from Minneapolis, Minn., relates the story of the case of James Connors, the Butler county prisoner, who died at the penitentiary several days ago:

The complete story of John Burke, Jr., alias "James Connors," who was fatally wounded at the Ohio penitentiary, has not yet been revealed to the public. He was the second of the three men who have been killed in the Ohio penitentiary during the last two months. The third was Master, an Englishman, who was in the intellectual pen- itentiary for a short time.

Mr. Burke was born in Ireland thirty two years ago. His father, John B.
Burke, was a respected citizen of the place where he was born. Young Burke was known as one of the brightest young men in the city in his drug store. He attended a medical college at Philadelphia, and was highly regarded. He attended a medical college at the age of twenty, and was highly regarded. He attended a medical college at the age of thirty, and was highly regarded.

The family regarded the death of his father as a great sorrow, and were deeply grieved. The death of Mr. Burke was a great sorrow, and was deeply grieved. The death of Mr. Burke was a great sorrow, and was deeply grieved. The death of Mr. Burke was a great sorrow, and was deeply grieved.

A week ago, at a printing office in Hamilton, Missouri, the printer's son was killed. The boy was a printer's son, and was working in the printing office. The boy was a printer's son, and was working in the printing office. The boy was a printer's son, and was working in the printing office. The boy was a printer's son, and was working in the printing office.

On Saturday, Mr. Hedges reached the city of St. Louis, Missouri, and was introduced to the printing office. Mr. Hedges reached the city of St. Louis, Missouri, and was introduced to the printing office. Mr. Hedges reached the city of St. Louis, Missouri, and was introduced to the printing office. Mr. Hedges reached the city of St. Louis, Missouri, and was introduced to the printing office.

A second attempt was made by Burke's father, John W. Burke, who went to Washington and obtained a Copyright © 2021 Newspapers.com. All Rights Reserved.